ABOUT SANTIAGO DE LA RIBERA

Santiago de la Ribera lies within the municipality of San Javier, and in terms of population is the largest district, occupying the area on the inland shore of the saltwater lagoon of the Mar Menor. In effect it is the beach area of the town of San Javier, located 3 kilometres from the main town centre, and its 4 kilometres of beaches make it a popular destination for tourists from other parts of Spain and the rest of Europe. San Javier has two distinct areas of beach and tourism activity, one being this one on the mainland and the other section lying at the northern end of La Manga del Mar Menor and boasting beaches not only on the shore of the lagoon but also on the Mediterranean. The attractive beaches make Santiago de la Ribera an important tourism destination within the Region of Murcia and many families from other areas of Spain have owned property in the area since the Mar Menor first began to develop as a tourism destination. Santiago de la Ribera has a friendly, homely air as a result, and is also home to a substantial year-round population, retaining a strong feel of community at all times and making it popular with non-Spaniards.
